Located on a beautiful 18-acre campus in Fairfax County, Virginia, DCS enrolls approximately 150 students in kindergarten through high school and seeks to kindle a love of learning in students so that they are equipped to pursue truth and wisdom in all of life's endeavors. DCS is one of a growing number of Classical Christian schools that have chosen to teach students according to the Trivium model. The goal of this method is that students will learn not just subjects, but will master the "tools of learning" to enable them to become independent thinkers infused with a love of learning and a love for God and all the order and beauty of His creation.

The Head of School will provide leadership in all aspects of the school, including strategic planning, financial oversight, community relations, facility improvement and maintenance, school operations, and faculty development. To that end, the primary task of the Head of School will be to execute the school's strategic plan and ensure that the goals and objectives set out in that plan are accomplished. The Head of School is the sole employee of the Board, and serves as the primary communicator between the Board and the faculty.

The Head of School must be a mature Christian and an active member in good standing of a local Protestant church. The Head must affirm and model the core truths of Scriptures as stated in the historic creeds of the Protestant Reformation. The Head must understand, embrace, and exemplify the Classical model of education and be able to clearly articulate and promote the model, both within the DCS community and to the community at large.
