Southern Teachers Agency is assisting William Penn Charter School in the search for their next Director of Athletics & Athletic Planning. William Penn Charter School is a Quaker, coeducational, prekindergarten through twelve day school on a 44 acre campus in the East Falls neighborhood of Philadelphia. Its diverse student body of 958 students travels to Penn Charter from 111 different zip codes. Established in 1689 by William Penn, the school emphasizes academics, the arts, athletics, spiritual awareness, and service learning.

The spirit of Penn Charter athletics is built on a rich and storied tradition of excellence. It believes that the interplay of the three A's – academics, arts, athletics – leads to strong, creative, resilient and flexible people – people who are able to adjust, reposition, and be ready for any opportunity that comes their way. Skilled teachers and coaches help students understand – whether in mathematics or tennis – how to collaborate and compete, how to win with grace, and how to handle challenges and setbacks.

William Penn Charter School seeks a Director of Athletics & Athletic Planning. The successful candidate will have demonstrated athletic and administrative leadership, an established record of coaching success in a varsity level program, and the ability to articulate and lead Penn Charter athletics today and in the future.
