Southern Teachers Agency is assisting Wakefield Country Day School in the search for their next Head of School. Wakefield Country Day School was founded in 1972 and was incorporated in 1991 with a mission to develop each student's character and intellect through active involvement in a structured curriculum founded on classical principles. The school is committed to offering its rigorous college-preparatory program (100 % of seniors are accepted to four-year colleges) to mission-appropriate students regardless of means. Parents value not only the mission of the school, but also the family-like environment that nurtures each student. The school enrolls approximately 210 to 250 students in preschool through grade twelve, including a small but significant component of upper school international students.

The Head of School, as chief executive officer and sole employee of the Board, ensures that the mission of the school and the Board's Strategic Plan goals guide the operation of the school. He or she provides leadership in all aspects of the school, including academic quality, character development, community and constituent relations, facility development and management, fiscal fund-raising and management, and personnel management, while keeping the best interests of the students as the priority.
